09:10 a.m. Panel 1 | Investing in Malaysia 2030: Legal Pathways to the Nation's Growth Sectors

As the nation enters its seventh decade of independence, the demands of digitalisation, energy transition, and economic growth are reshaping the infrastructure landscape. The emergence of large-scale data centres raises fundamental questions about resource management, sustainability, and long-term planning.

This session discusses how Malaysia can balance growth with resilience, attract investment, and build the partnerships needed for the next phase of national development.

Panel 3 | Red Flags to Risk Exposures: Navigating Corporate Investigations and Criminal Liability

In the already complex landscape of corporate investigations and criminal liability, organizations are facing an increasingly dynamic risk environment.

This session will explore how organizations can identify red flags early, navigate internal investigations, and manage the legal, forensic and PR risks arising from suspected misconduct. It will also examine how AI is reshaping that risk landscape, creating new forms of misconduct while challenging traditional notions of evidence, accountability and attribution, and what this means for corporate criminal exposure.
